SHANGHAI BROKER CHARGED WITH PERJURY.

The charge brought against Mr. I. R. Michael, a broker, in H.B.M.'s Supreme Court, Shanghai, was laid by Mr. H. H. Read, another broker, and reads:—
"Complaint has this day been made on oath before this Court, for that you on the 4th day of October, 1910, at Shanghai, in the Empire of China, falsely, wickedly, and corruptly did commit wilful and corrupt perjury in the testimony which you gave upon oath as a witness at the trial of a certain case between the said I. R. Michael and W. V. Carmichael & Co., B. M. Supreme Court for China and Corea at Shanghai, to the following effect:—
"1. That two several parcels of 200 Ayer Tawah shares and one parcel of 200 Batu Amman shares were sold by you as broker to W. V. Carmichael and were bought by you as a broker.
"2. That you did no transactions on your own account as principal in the shares which were the subject matter of such action, being shares in the following companies: Taling, Ayer Tawah, and Anglo Javah.
"3. That you had never been interested otherwise than as a broker in the rise and fall of rubber shares."
Mr. Oppé appeared for the prosecution; accused was represented by Mr. J. O. E. Douglas.

THE PLAGUE IN THE NORTH.

The news from the North is a little brighter this morning, and it looks as though the worst of the plague was over. The N. C. Daily News in the course of some notes on the plague observes that it has yet to be proved that the "Mongolian" plague, i.e. "pneumonic" plague, is caused by the same germs as "bubonic" plague. Mongolian plague takes from three to seven days to incubate; the germ is inhaled.

The late Dr. Messy was inoculated with anti-bubonic plague serum, immediately he arrived in Harbin.

Delicate persons are much more liable to catch the disease than healthy persons. Most of those who have died are underfed, poorly-clad persons, or people whose lungs are affected.

It is remarkable that up to date only twenty-seven Russians have died in Harbin and three Japanese in Changchun.

A Talk on Hall's Distemper.

HALL'S Distemper continues to grow in popularity both at home and abroad.
The widely increased demand during the past year has been another great tribute to its sterling worth. Leading Architects and Builders are specifying it more than ever, and it has been selected for use in a great many of the leading public buildings such as: The Tower of London, The Royal Mint, The Royal Hospital, Chelsea; The War Office, The Admiralty, The National Gallery, The British Museum, The General Post Office, The Offices of Woods and Forests, etc., and in Buckingham and St. James' Palaces.

While a description of Hall's Distemper is no doubt superfluous, we beg to remind Architects, Builders, and Household of the following special points:—
It is made in two qualities—The Inside quality is the modern scientific substitute for wall-paper; it makes a more artistic, practical, and healthier wall covering altogether.

The Outside quality is fully weather resisting, it can be used on wood work, iron work, brick work, stone, etc., and can be painted or varnished.

Hall's Distemper no doubt owes a great deal of its popularity to its ease of application and great covering power, resulting in economy in both material and labour costs. 1 cwt. will cover double the surface of 1 cwt. pure white lead, and it dries evenly, overcoming the difficulty of obtaining a uniform tint on plain walls.

There is no wall covering so hygienic as Hall's Distemper. It contains a powerful germicide, and when applied it is instant death to all insect life. It is washable after three weeks by being lightly sponged with warm water.

Special Note.—Hall's Distemper should not be confused with the many so-called Washable Distempers now offered for sale, nor with that class of material which requires elaborate preparation of walls. Hall's Distemper is a unique preparation with entirely distinct advantages, and is made only by Simeon Brothers & Co., Ltd., Hull, and London. Sole Agents for South China.

TURTLE SOUP.
The common connection of the turtle
with the City of London seems to have no further justification than the undoubted fact that the delectable soup is better cooked to the east of Temple Bar than to the west. That is merely a matter of the maintenance of tradition by genuine experienced English cooks, as against the innovations and doubtful experiments of foreign chefs, who are never content to let well alone.
That great and cultured playwright, poet,
and enterer, Samuel Birch (whose little green bow-windowed shop is still the headquarters of the firm) flourished during the latter portion of the eighteenth and the early nineteenth centuries, just when turtle was coming into fashion. He became eventually Lord Mayor of London, having inherited the catering business from his father, who was a confectioner and pastry cook. The future Lord Mayor enlarged the scope of the business, and added to it the making of turtle soup of such remarkable excellence that all the famous gourmets of the time (and they were many and discerning) met at his shop to enjoy it.
During his tenure of office, the turtle soup
served at the Mansion House gave his banquets a vogue that aroused, fierce competition to secure invitations.
The turtle and its culinary value were, of course, known at a much earlier date. In "The Relation of the Great Suffering and Strange Adventures of Henry Pitman," 1689, he says:—
"And thus we walked to and from in the night-time to turn turtle and in the daytime we were employed in killing them,
whose flesh was the chiefest of our diet,
being roasted by the fire on wooden spits.
And sometimes, when we designed a festival, we left some part of the flesh on the spit and caudex—that is, in the back and breast shells—which we roasted
by setting them upright in two forked sticks, thrust into the sand before a large fire."
Pitman was tried for something or other condemned, and transported to Barbados;
he escaped in a small open boat to a desolate island, whence he was rescued by a privateer and returned to England. He goes on to say:—
"And here, for the better information
of some persons, I think fit to describe
these Sea Beasts (if I may so call them),
which are somewhat of an oval form,
strongly defended on the back and breast
with a thick shell, and have four fins
covered with thick scales, that serve them
instead of legs when they come ashore.
They feed on weeds, or sea-grass, that grows out of the rocks, which I judge is the true reason why they do not eat
fishy... their flesh is very delicious
and pleasant to the taste."
It does not seem altogether quite fair to the turtle that, perhaps owing to his uncouth form and solemn presence—or for some other unknown reason—he should so often be made the butt of a joke—usually a bad one. He has really done nothing to deserve it.
It is told, for instance, of Sir Philip Francis, a great gourmand of his time, that,
being at a City feast, he enviously watched his next neighbour who was busy eating a bowl of turtle soup and keeping a piece of green fat for the bounteous St. Philip unable at last to resist it, seized the delicate morsel with his fork and transferred it to his mouth, and then, giving the stranger his card, said, "Sir, I am ready to make you the most ample apology, or to give you the satisfaction of a gentleman; but I must say you had no right to throw such a temptation in my way."

rose from his seat, and with every mark of astonishment in his face, called out
"Silence!" which being obtained, he thus addressed the chief magistrate, who sat in the chair: "My Lord Mayor! The wicked have accused us of intemperance, and branded us with the imputation of gluttony.
That they may be put to open shame, and their profane tongues be from this day utterly silenced, I humbly move that your lordship command the proper officer to record on our annals that two Aldermen
of the City of London prefer both and bacon
to turtle soup or venison!"
The folk-lore of the turtle is limited, but a pleasant fairy-tale comes from Japan.
It was in the closing years of the reign of Yuraku (457-479) that the fisherboy
Urashima, the Rip Van Winkle of Japan, disappeared from his home. He was fishing off Tango, and caught a turtle, which promptly changed into a lovely female. She gave her hand to Urashima, and informed him that her father was the Sea God (a sort of Neptune), and took him beneath
the waves (thereby resembling Loreley),
where they found an island full of palaces called Hori San, the honourable land of Perpetual Life. They were married, but after three years he yearned to go back to his home. His wife consented, and gave him a box which he promised to carry as a talisman but never to open. So he returned home but when he landed and inquired for his own people he learned that they had ceased to exist for three hundred years. So being depressed by the news, he determined to open the box (much like Pandora). Whereupon a silver cloud arose therefrom and floated away over the sea.
The cloud was the elixir vitae of Hori San, confering immortality. So Urashima, who was a strong, lusty man, became immediately changed into an old decrepit individual who very soon died of old age. And it all came to pass because of a turtle!

That incomparable cordon bleu, Tabitha Tickletooth, of delightful memory, says that turtle soup may be "stretched" almost indefinitely. She quotes a story about a well known hotel at Brighton.
A visitor complained that the turtle soup gradually decreased in quality towards the end of the week. To which the landlord replied: "As you are an old customer, sir, I'll frankly confess that when the demand exceeds the supply we are obliged to 'stretch.' Turtle soups with us has, like the year, four seasons; the first day it is fresh and strong; that's the spring; the second day we throw in a little cayenne to increase its piquancy, that's its summer; the third day we strengthen with additional forearm and catnip, that's its autumn; and the fourth day we 'stretch'
with aqua pumpo, that's its winter."
In the window of an oyster shop in New York there were recently seen six small turtles (probably terrapin), on the backs
of each being painted a letter in white.
A notice was exhibited to the effect that whenever the six turtles got into line so as to spell the word "oyster" every person in the crowd outside would be given a free meal of oysters.
This seems another gibe aimed at the in-offensive, passive turtle, which really has little that is humorous about it. Why?
(F. Schloesser in P. M. G.)

The task of inducing British women generally to adopt the "harem skirt" which a well-known French dressmaking firm intends to introduce, is hopeless in the opinion of some of London's dress experts.
The skirt is an almost exact reproduction
of the Turkish woman's costume—a long,
loose, divided garment, fitting tightly at each ankle.
In a French catalogue of second hand
prints issued recently appears this item:
"A Common Council Beast returning from a Turtle Feast, en conglure 15 francs."
This does not, surely, refer to the gentleman's countenance but to the print.
That this is a libel is easily proved. Many years ago, when John Wilkes was present at a Guildhall dinner, he called out to Alderman Boydell (of Shakespeare fame): "Mr Alderman, shall I help you to a plate of turtle or a slice of the haunch?
I am within reach of both, Sir." "Neither one nor other, I thank you, sir," replied Boydell; "I shall dine upon the beans and bacon, which are at this end of the table." Another Alderman, Macaulay, was asked the same question, and replied in the same terms. This was too much for the old Chamberlain, who

THE OLD STYLE flat lens gives a restricted field of vision—you must look through the centre of the lens to see correctly.
WITH THE TORIC LENS, on the contrary, you have correct vision looking through any part of the lens. You move your eyes instead of turning your head from side to side.
TO THE TENNIS PLAYER, trap shooter,
the cricketer, the billiard player, in fact in all fields
of sport, the TORIC LENS means a better score
because of quicker and better vision.
THE TORIC LENS corrects the error of vision better than any other—it comes nearer making the eye natural. Wearers of Toric lenses never go back to the old style.
WE GRIND TORIC LENSES to any prescription from clear or tinted optical glass of first quality. We absolutely guarantee every pair made.

That is the logical deduction to be derived from his definition surely; and yet how absurd. While another doubt is raised when we consider in this respect the real status of the piano player?

It is a very vexed question this of the barmaid, particularly in the Far East. At home public opinion is greatly divided upon the subject. One party would do, like the Hongkong Government wishes to do, banish them entirely from all licensed premises, but an equally strong body of public opinion sees nothing wrong in their employment in such places and supports the contention of the women themselves that it is an honourable respectable, and reasonable form of occupation for a member of the weaker sex to pursue. Of course like every other calling the women have it in their power to make what they like of it, and the deputations which waited on Mr. HERBERT GLADSTONE, when, as Home Secretary, he proposed altering the London licensing acts so as to banish them from the bars, declared that in the great and overwhelming majority of cases the women employed as barmaids in the matter of morals, conduct and social behaviour compared most favourably with any other class of working women. But what may be considered a good institution for London need not necessarily prove so for places East of Suez where circumstances are so widely different; though into that point we need not enter to-day. All we wish to urge on the present occasion is that in view of the present wording of the Ordinances the Hongkong police would be well advised to stay their hand and refrain from instituting any further prosecutions until the Licensing Ordinance shall be so revised as to clearly define what a barmaid is and what kind of persons will be allowed to be employed on licensed premises.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

H.M.S. Kent left for San Francisco this morning.

A note regarding the Siberian Mails appears in our Post Office Notices on the back page.

The silk ex O. S. K. ss. Seattle Maru which left Hongkong on the 28th December last was delivered in New York on the 1st February.

The latest news from Manila is that the volcanic eruption at Taal buried the town of Bayanung under five feet of mud. It was here that 300 people perished.

We have received two well-got-up wall calendars advertising Harvey's Special Scotch Whisky. One bears a reproduction of Burns's birthplace and the other, a figure study of a lady.

On account of the plague and other unforeseen circumstances, the Christian Endeavour Convention, which was to have taken place in Peking this coming spring, has been indefinitely postponed.

The health return for the past week is decidedly better, there being no deaths from communicable diseases notified. There were two occurrences of small-pox (one Chinese and one Eurasian, the latter imported), one of diphtheria (British) and one of enteric fever (Chinese).

The Canadian shipping companies declare that they are not affected by the United States action for the dissolution of the Atlantic Shipping Conference. They hold the view that the legal proceedings are rather in the nature of an equity suit to test the Government's jurisdiction. Counsel for the United States Government, however, denies that that view is correct.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Lieut. D. W. Kimm, Inspector of Army Schools, left the Command per s.s. Delhi on Saturday the 4th inst. for Colombo and Singapore, on inspection duty.

The death is announced of the famous Scottish painter John MacWhirter, R.A., H. R. S. A. Educated at Peebles, he studied at the School of Design at Edinburgh. He became an associate of the Royal Academy in 1870 and H. R. S. A. in 1880. His work was principally scenic, though he attained distinction in other departments of painting. He will be chiefly remembered for his love of the silver birch tree, which he introduced into so many of his pictures.

THE LATE GERMAN ADMIRAL.

The Kaiser's Thanks.

This afternoon at 3.30 p.m., Captain Kraft, commanding the German Cruiser Squadron, and Staff called on H.E. The Governor to convey a message from His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Germany.

By cable order of His Imperial Majesty The German Emperor I have to express His Imperial thanks to your Excellency for your grand arrangements in connection with Admiral Guller's funeral, for your great sympathy shown to him and for your attendance at the funeral with all the officials and the Military Forces of the British Colony of Hongkong.

His Excellency replied that the Colony would deeply appreciate His Imperial Majesty's gracious message, for which he expressed his profound thanks.

The expressions of sympathy to which His Imperial Majesty had alluded were not merely outward forms, but were dictated by the real and sincere grief that the death of the Admiral had occasioned throughout the whole community.

H. E. Major General Anderson and Staff and Mr. Clement were also present at Government House.

On Saturday, 4th instant, prior to receiving His Imperial Majesty's instructions, Captain Kraft called on H.E. The Governor, the Admiral Commanding-in-Chief, the General Officer Commanding the Forces in South China, the leading Officials and the Captains of British and Foreign Warships in Harbour to express, on behalf of himself and his Officers, his sincere thanks for their sympathy and for their attendance at Admiral Guller's funeral.

TURF TOPICS.

A considerable amount of galloping was anticipated yesterday and this morning but only the Rose stable, a few subs, and two other ponies were given hard work, Tomahawk and Just In Spite. Pot Rose put up the best gallop this morning, finishing very strong. Spring Rose went well over a mile and a quarter but finished easy in 33 for last quarter. Little Gem has not yet got back his old form, while his temper is as bad as ever. Gardenia Rose's gallop this morning was the best performance he has yet done. His finish in 30 after a mile was particularly game. The last half was 1.17.2.

Of the subs, Bantam has again come into prominence. His exhibition over a mile and a quarter yesterday with Mr. Vida up again stamps him by far the best of the subs. The time, when analysed, was 3.04.3, last half 1.07.1, last quarter 30.3. He finished strong.

The rest of the subscription griffins are a poor lot, the best being Shellout, Urgent, Jack Spragg, Blowing Chief, Tarf, Coccyus Tree, Donna, Ancepedolly, and Trochima. Tregoe and Treveser are omitted as they are both "cracked." The former it is hoped will be all right in time to meet—it would be a pity if he were not, as he is one of the best this year—but the latter we hear is finished and will not appear during the meeting at all.

GREAT WINTER SALE AT POWELL'S.

Bargains Selling Like Hot Cakes.

The well known establishment of Messrs. William Powell & Co., Ltd., are now conducting a great winter clearance sale and all day to-day bargain hunters have been frequenting the spacious and commodious premises both in Alexandra Buildings and in Queen's Road Central where goods are displayed in a most attractive manner. Bargains are being picked up very rapidly, and in fact the sale articles which are being offered at ridiculously low prices are selling like hot cakes and the assistants are kept busy from morning till night. An important feature about the sale is the fact that the goods are all shrewdly and up-to-date and are absolutely new, being this season's stock and are being cleared regardless of cost to make room for their new stock of Spring goods. Abundant though the number of articles may be they will be all, one within a day or two at the rate so that it behooves those who desire reasonable and fashionable goods at a very low price to pay an early visit to at least one, if not both, of the shops belonging to Messrs. William Powell & Co., Ltd.

A TERRIBLE CALAMITY.

Town Bailed by Bandits.

Reports to hand tell of a terrible calamity that happened to the big village of Southern Water, in the Shum Tak district, on the last evening of the old Chinese year. The place was attacked by a band of robbers numbering nearly two hundred men. Some came by boat and others by land. The brigands first of all burnt down some ramshackle buildings belonging to the poor people, but as these were their only dwellings and contained their all the loss is serious. Thereafter they attacked the town. The robbers set fire to the place in different places. They then proceeded to rob, and used their knives against any who opposed them. The report says that several of the inhabitants were badly wounded, some dangerously. The accounts, robbed, right and left, and no one dared to oppose them. It is stated that more than a hundred dwellings and shops were robbed, looted, and burnt. The robbers kept on at work till about five o'clock in the morning, when the approach of dawn suggested that they ought to leave. They left threatening revenge upon any one who dared to make any noise or report the crime.

GENERAL CRONJE.

DEATH OF THE BOER GENERAL.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

LONDON, February 6.

The death is announced from Klerksdorp of General Cronje.

[Note—General Piet A. Cronje commanded the Western Army of the South African Republic in the Boer War, and succeeded at Paarlburg to Field-Marshal Lord Roberts on February 27th, 1900. Of Huguenot descent, he was about 70 years of age, and was a widower. Prior to the War he was a member of the Executive Council of the Transvaal Republic, being Chief Native Commissioner. In the year 1881 he besieged Potchefstroom and received its capitulation keeping the garrison in ignorance of the fact that an armistice had been declared. In 1890 he frustrated the Johannesburg Raid at Krugersdorp. A daring fighter of stern courage, he gave the British troops many an anxious time in the late War, and when at last he was cornered and had to give in he was warmly congratulated by Lord Roberts for the gallant stand he had made.—Ed. C.M.]

HONGKONG AVIATION MEETING ABANDONED.

Regret will be felt by the whole community when it becomes known that the aviation meeting which was to have taken place at Tai-po on Friday and the following days has been abandoned through their being insufficient enclosed ground for the purpose arrangements were made to come to with the railway authorities whereby an inclusive fee would be charged for the journey and to witness the flight of Mr. J. C. Mars, the well known aviator, but at the last moment it transpires that this arrangement is impracticable. The aviator was to receive a percentage of the receipts so that as this arrangement is off it would entail considerable financial loss to the promoters if they were to conduct the flight without any remuneration for their service. Hongkong must therefore wait some time, probably years, before suitable arrangements can be made whereby a successful aviation meeting can be held.

Mr. Mars leaves for Manila on Wednesday.

THE KING'S POLICE MEDAL.

Chief Detective Inspector Hanson Honoured.

Somewhat belated, and still unofficial, the news has been received that amongst those who were awarded the King's Police Medal in the New Year Honours is Chief Detective Inspector J. W. Hanson, of the Hongkong Force. The information has been culled from Home newspapers just to hand containing a full list of the Honours, but, strange to note, no official intimation of the award has been received in the Colony. The London and China Express mentions two recipients of the medal—Chief Detective Inspector Hanson of Hongkong, and Inspector General W. A. Cusack of the Straits Settlements; but the weekly edition of the Times does not give any names, but states that the King's Police Medal was a New Year gift to 98 members of police and fire brigade establishments throughout the Empire, and remarks that the geographical distribution of the medals is—India, 50; United Kingdom, 35; various overseas forces, 13. This journal says that the reasons for the honour are stated in each case and the plain, matter-of-fact narratives form a moving record of loyalty and heroism. The medal, it adds, has also been granted in many cases where long service and exceptional merit and ability have been combined.

It is doubtless in recognition of Inspector Hanson's services in this latter connection that the great honour has been bestowed upon him, for he has put in no less than 30 years' service in the Hongkong Police Force. During the whole of that time he has performed his duties with characteristic thoroughness and supreme tact. He has, in fact, devoted his life's work to the claims of the Force, and the best testimony that can be written of him is that he is now, after a long period of faithful service, able to look back over the past with a consciousness that he has nothing to regret and with a feeling which the knowledge of duty fearlessly done can alone call into existence. During the whole of his 30 years' work on behalf of the Force of law and order in the Colony Mr. Hanson has only twice been home on leave—once in 1885 and again in 1902. His record of service is one of which he may justly feel proud. He has, by sheer application of undoubted ability, worked his way up from the bottom, for when he became attached to the force in 1874 he held the rank of constable. Some six years later he was promoted Acting Sergeant and in 1882 was made Full Sergeant. His next step upwards was when he twice discharged the duties of Acting Inspector during the periods 1889 to 1890, while in 1891 he was given the rank of Third Class Inspector. Then honours came fast, for within the next seven years he was successively elevated to Acting Second Class Inspector, Second Class Inspector, First Class Inspector, and then Chief Detective Inspector. He has had many thrilling experiences during his lengthy term of service, and has also been associated with most of the big criminal cases which have transpired within the past seven or eight years. While Acting Second Class Inspector he went through the terrible plague scourge which fell on the Colony in 1894 and for his services was awarded the Plague Medal. Fortunately he escaped the dread disease himself, but his little son was stricken down and taken to Hospital, but eventually recovered. His pious friend will hear with pleasure of the bestowal of the coveted honour, proving that the award has been voted to an officer who thoroughly deserves this high recognition of long service and undoubted ability. We wish to join in the congratulations which are being showered on Mr. H.

THE AMERICAN CANADA AGREEMENT.

REVIVES TARIFF QUESTION IN ENGLAND.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

LONDON, February 6.

The publication in England of the text of the Reciprocity Agreement between Canada and the United States has revived political controversy on the tariff question.

Its unexpectedly wide scope has surprised and disquieted one section of the Unionists, whose views are voiced by the London Morning Post, which journal appeals to the Unionists to drop its schemes for the reform of the House of Lords and rally to the Imperialists of Canada so as to prevent a ratification of the Agreement.

The Daily Mail, on the other hand, says that preference is dead and Canadian enthusiasm for the so-called Chamberlain policy extinct. The paper rejoices that Unionists are freed from the unfair handicap of a food tax and suggests a lowering of the duties on British manufactures within the Empire as a step towards Imperial Free Trade.

SHANGHAI FRAUD CASE.

MR CRAIG SENTENCED.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

SHANGHAI, February 9.

Mr H. J. Craig, Managing Director of Messrs Craig and Company, and an ex-member of the Municipal Council, pleaded guilty, at the Supreme Court, to-day, to fraud in connection with the Siak Indrapoem Company Ltd.

He was sentenced to four months' hard labour.

[Note—The charge against Mr Craig was that he did on March 16th, 1910, and on divers other dates between then and May 18th, conspire with Mr William Pitts and other persons whose names were unknown, by false pretences to acquire to themselves and from the Siak Indrapoem Rubber Concessions, Ltd., divers large sums of money and certificates of the said company and to cheat and defraud the said company thereof. It was alleged by the prosecution that Mr Craig conspired with Mr Pitts in so far that he and Mr Pitts agreed to send to Dr Nijhuis, in Singapore, a telegram in which they requested him to wire to Craig & Co. in Shanghai certain particulars with reference to an estate, but that the telegram was not to bear the name Nijhuis, but the name of a man called Perampoen, who was supposed to be the nominee of Messrs. Burghes and Donaldson, attorneys of Singapore, and employed by them for the purpose of giving a report on the estate. Evidence was called to prove that it was on the strength of this telegram being from the representative of Donaldson and Burghes, that the Directors parted with the shares and the balance of the purchase money in cash to Mr Craig. It was mentioned during the hearing of the case in H. B. M. Court that Mr Pitts was in Australia, and the Judge intimated his willingness to issue a warrant which might be executed in that country, if further information was supplied.—Ed. C.M.]

pounded his rival's kidneys, the spectators hooting wildly meanwhile. Rushing in for the seventh round, Welsh was met with two nice tight hooks to the cheek. Clinching again the referee ordered the men to break away. Driscoll turned to look at the referee and was promptly treated to a couple of hooks to the face. A light spar opened the eighth round, and Welsh sent the left to Driscoll's jaw. More indignant, in which Driscoll showed up well, was followed by the feather-weight champion, who was boxing with roused vigour and making the pace very warm, scoring in more open work. Driscoll again forced the fighting in round 8, gaining in both confidence and aggressiveness.

APPEALS TO THE REFEREE.

In the clinches there was a lot of holding and nasty head work, both men frequently casting appealing glances at the referee. In out-fighting Driscoll showed to advantage, and supporters cheered loudly. The round distinctly favoured Driscoll, who appeared to improve as the fight progressed. Opening the tenth, Driscoll sent the left smartly to the face, which shook Welsh. They went to clinch, broke away, clinched again, roughing each other round the ring, amid scenes of indescribable excitement. All rules of boxing were ignored, and to all intents and purposes it might have been a rough-and-tumble street fight. Driscoll lost all control of his temper, and openly baited his opponent. Mr Bettinson jumping into the ring and disqualifying him for this offence waiting the contest to Welsh. When Driscoll heard the referee's decision he burst into tears, and could hardly realise that for the first time in a long and brilliant career in the ring he had been disqualified.

The verdict caused something like a sensation, and there was a terrific uproar and a storm of protest against the referee's decision. Immediately the men had returned to their corners, the supporters broke into the ring, and there was a fierce fight for a few seconds between two of the supporters of Driscoll and Welsh respectively. Fortunately, there was a strong force of police at hand, but they had some difficulty in separating the combatants. Driscoll was still crying bitterly when the gloves were taken off his hands, and he was escorted to the dressing-room by a group of sympathisers. Seen after the contest, Mr Bettinson said he was exceedingly sorry to have been forced to have given the verdict that he had, but he had no alternative but to disqualify Driscoll. "Welsh, I admit," said Mr Bettinson, "is a most exasperating man to fight, and I can fully sympathise with Driscoll in losing his head. Driscoll quite out-fought Welsh in the last two or three rounds; he would, in my opinion, certainly have beaten Welsh." Asked as to the legality of Welsh's celebrated kidney punch, Mr Bettinson said that they were all delivered fairly, and he disapproved of all appeals from Driscoll's corner in consequence.

The Lat Pau Journal points out that the number of lawyers in the new Parliament is practically the same as in the old. Last January 109 members of the legal profession were elected, including 139 barristers and thirty solicitors. This General Election has resulted in the return of 183 lawyers, including 136 barristers and twenty-seven solicitors. Considerably more than half the 136 members of the Bar who have been victorious at the polls are, however, merely nominal members of the profession. It is estimated that 134 members of the new Parliament belong to the Free Churches, excluding the Irish members, of whom the greater number are Roman Catholics. Thus the Church of England has a larger majority over all others combined in the House.

THE BIRD IN THE HAND (A BIRD IN THE HAND IS WORTH TWO IN THE BUSH).

THE bird in the hand is the customer within the store. It requires some sort of attraction in the first place to get the customer there—about the best attraction is a real live advertisement of something good that will catch the eye that has been carefully written, artistically compiled and strikingly set up. Advertisements in the China Mail and Overseas China Mail read the book, look the best and give the best results.

COMPANY MEETING.

Union Waterboat Co., Ltd.

The sixth annual general meeting of shareholders of the Union Waterboat Co., Ltd. was held at the Office of Messrs. Dodsell and Co., Ltd., today.

Mr. G. H. Medhurst presided and there were present Messrs. P. J. Dinschop, J. W. C. Bonnar, C. G. Gok, T. Kusumoto, R. Shewan, A. H. Skelton, consulting committee, Messrs. A. Ellis, J. D. Auld, E. A. G. May, and the secretary, Mr. E. Grant-Smith.

The Secretary read the notice convening the meeting.

The Chairman said—Gentlemen. With your permission I will dispense with the formality of reading the report and accounts. The profits for the year under review amount to $35,648.55 as against $11,950.18 for the preceding year, which I think we may consider satisfactory. Our marine superintendent reports that all the company's boats are in good condition, and have been well kept up. All repairs to boats have been paid for out of current revenue, and the special repairs account which was inaugurated last year for the purpose of covering exceptional repair bills has not been encroached upon. With this special account in hand and with the suggestion of opening of an insurance fund by the transfer of $10,000 from this year's profits, I feel that without doing unduly sanguine we may safely look forward to regular and increasing dividends. The accounts appear to call for no further comment, but before proposing the adoption of the report and accounts, if any shareholder desires to ask any questions I shall be happy to answer them to the best of my ability.

There being no questions the Chairman proposed the adoption of the report and accounts.

Mr. Gok seconded and the motion was carried.

The Chairman—That is all the business gentlemen; dividend warrants will be ready to-morrow. I thank you for your attendance.

A PARTNERSHIP CASE.

Before the Chief Justice Sir Francis Pigott and Mr. Justice Hazledine, sitting as a Full Court at the Supreme Court this morning, Ng Tek Ting, appellant, appealed against the judgment given for respondent, Wong Cheung Cho, on October 26, 1909, in which plaintiff, as executor under the will of Ng Kim Kan, alias Ng Kim Guen, deceased, had to pay defendant his costs incidental to plaintiff's claim. Appellant moved that the judgment be reversed and that it might be adjudged that plaintiff do recover against defendant in the sum of $10,000 together with interest from October 27, 1909, and costs.

Mr. M. W. Slade, K.C., instructed by Mr. O. E. P. Boyer, appeared for appellant and Mr. Eldon Potter defended, instructed by Mr. Needham.

Mr. Slade said that as their Lordships would remember when that appeal came on in September last and after reading the judgment and intimating that a portion of it should be reversed he had indicated the line he proposed to take and the Chief Justice had said that he was misunderstanding the judgment and the point they required arguing was whether the bare fact that when a man dies the partners in the firm, his executors or family allowed him money to remain in the firm and drew the profits thereof for a period of time constituted the executor or his family as beneficiaries or partners of the firm. He thought that the error in the judgment had arisen from too close an attention to the latter part of the partnership ordinance and overlooking the former part. The decision of the court below was that a new partnership was created by the death.

The Chief Justice—Either a new partnership is created or the money is left in the firm as a loan. These are the two alternatives.

Mr. Slade—Yes. Continuing, Mr. Slade said that in order to appreciate the ordinance it was necessary to understand what the law was at the time it was passed. The history of the law of partnerships was a history of particular and of vital importance. There was no doubt whatever that before 1860 the mere fact of sharing profits made a man liable for the sharing of the losses, and that if an executor left the money in the firm he became directly responsible for the losses and it was probable that the beneficiaries each and everyone became liable for the debts to the full extent as partners of the firm.

The Chief Justice—It might be said that an executor was a partner because he left the money in!

Mr. Slade said that according to English law if they were not a partner they were not liable to the partners or to share losses with them.

The Chief Justice—It is the custom of the Chinese to leave their money in the firm in this way.

Mr. Slade—The case is really provided in the ordinance but we seem to have overlooked it.

Further argument took place and the case was adjourned.

COST-BUYABLE.

WHILE it is often impossible to prevent an accident, it is never impossible to be prepared—it is not beyond any one's power. Buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and you are prepared for sprains, bruises and like injuries. Put it in your pocket and you are prepared for all.

League Football.

HONGKONG F.C. v. R. E.

This belated League game was played on the Club ground on Saturday. The match was well contested, both teams doing their best in view of the impending Shield struggles. The Engineers opened strongly and were first to get through. Then the Club rallied, and Forbes put the teams level again. In the second half the game waxed hot, but the defence of either side prevailed and no further scoring took place, the result being a draw of one goal each.

NAVAL YARD v. KOWLOON.

Naval Yard showed their scoring facilities in their match with Kowloon. In the opening half they put on five goals without response, and added two more in the second moiety, when Kowloon also managed to get through once. Result:—

Naval Yard, 7; Kowloon, 1.

Billiards.

GRAND HOTEL HANDICAP.

A fine game was witnessed on Saturday night in connection with the Grand Hotel billiard handicap when Mr. Phillips, owes 85, defeated Mr. Eales, owes 85. Mr. Phillips made a break of 34 while his opponent's highest break was 25. This break of 34 equals the highest so far in the tournament and it is interesting to note that the play throughout has been of a very high order. Mr. Eales scored 186 to 260 by Mr. Phillips.

To-night Mr. C. Taylor meets Mr. Cooper while tomorrow night Mr. Railton meets Mr. Bell. On Wednesday night the second round will be brought to a conclusion when Mr. McLennan meets Mr. Irving.

ANOTHER SCHARNHORST CONCERT.

S. M. S. Scharnhorst having returned will give a concert this week and a second one early next week. One will be a popular concert and the other a classical or Wagner concert. The dates will be announced to-morrow.

Those who remember the three delightful orchestral concerts given by this talented body of musicians under the direction of Herr Richter a month back will welcome their return very warmly.

DIPHTHERIA—HOW IT MAY BE AVOIDED.

DIPHTHERIA is usually contracted when the child has a cold. The cold prepares the child's system for the reception and development of the diphtheria germs. When there are cases of diphtheria in the neighbourhood children that have colds should be kept at home and on the strictest isolation. Give them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and they will not have to remain at home long. It also cleans out the culture bodies which form in a child's throat when it has a cold, and minimizes the risk of contracting infectious diseases. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

REVIEWS.

The International Relations of the Chinese Empire.

By Mr. H. H. Moore; Kelly and Walsh Limited, Hongkong.

In this compact volume of six hundred and seventeen pages Mr. Moore covers a very important period of Chinese history, viz. "The period of conflict from 1834 to 1860."

Students of things Chinese who will secure the two latest volumes on Chinese history which cover the last seventy years of the nineteenth century, will find themselves introduced to much knowledge and will be able to form their own conclusions on many matters which, ere the publication of these volumes, was somewhat obscure. The two volumes referred to are "China under the Empress Dowager," and the volume mentioned at the head of this brief review. The latter book is well got up in every way. It is amply provided with maps; it is supplied with a capital index; there are several appendices, which contain State papers and other documents, such as for example, "The Imperial rescript granting toleration to Christianity in China," which will be found very valuable to the careful student of the international relations between China and the countries of the West during those eventful years whilst the powers of the Occident were demanding common courtesy from the officials of China. The volume opens with a chapter on the Government of China. The official administration of this vast empire is to most Europeans somewhat obscure. Some assert that the Chinese govern themselves; others say that "the Government of China is all-absorbing." If the condition of the country is really understood there is ground for making and defending both these assertions. In regard to the highest provincial rulers we are told that "for the eighteenth century there are eight Viceroyalties, and originally fifteen Governors, now (since 1905) reduced to eleven. The Viceroy, though of higher rank, and looming larger in the eyes of the world, is in the provincial administration a superior colleague of the Governor, and in all matters, orders to subordinates, and memorials to the throne, the two act conjointly." If we descend to the Hien, as in some books Hsien, we find an exhaustive statement of his duties, his responsibilities, and his salary, as far as it is officially recognised. We have never before come across a clearer statement of the several officials, and their duties than we find arranged for us here.

The chapter of "Taxation in China" needs careful study in order to grasp its meaning. The author is specially well equipped to deal with this question already he has published a special volume on the subject, and much of this has been condensed, and very clearly condensed. The early conquerors of the present dynasty, having no frontier on the north to guard, and no Imperial navy to construct and maintain, were wise enough to concentrate their subjects in every possible way consistent with their own authority. Consequently, the Emperor in 1713 "decreed that the land tax throughout the Empire, as shown by the records of that year, should be the basis of all assessments for all time, no increases being permitted under any circumstances." The tax-note records the amounts which make up this assessment the fixed settlement of two hundred years ago, but it also includes assessments which are the result of nearly a half century of change in the past before the tax collector bent on taking as much as he is able to extract, and the taxpayer who is determined to pay as little as possible. There is much curious information at the quest of the student in this chapter.

The chapter dealing with the early attempts of Western nations to carry on trade with China is full of interest. We discover that the resident population in Macao in 1830 amounted to 4,480. From the table before us there appear to have been 1,292 white men, and 3,188 white women in Macao at that date, and the disproportion between men and women, unusual in a colony, is a striking commentary on the character of the place. No other things will not necessarily be referred to the survey of the troubles that followed each other in Canton during the later years of the factories, and the seizure and destruction of opium. Much of this is common history, and has been recorded by other writers. Without entering into the much disputed points arising out of the opium question, which are referred to here, we may remark that Mr. Moore refers to the moral standards in vogue in England during the first half of the nineteenth century and warns students to assume that they were the same as those which obtain at the beginning of the twentieth century. Standards have been raised since the beginning of the nineteenth century in regard to gin-drinking, gambling and other vices. Without delivering any sentences on the opium question, it is safe to assert that our author is, moving along safe lines in calling attention to this difference. Whilst this reference will never defend opium smoking to the determined anti-opiumist, anxious students of history will remember these things, and will not measure the standards that are in vogue to-day by the actions of those who lived and acted a hundred years ago. Our author shows the innate hostility of the Cantonese against foreigners, an attitude which is not altogether surprising to-day. The Cantonese "remained implicitly hostile, and in nothing was this more manifested than in the continued restriction of the foreign merchant to the old factory-buildings. The foreigners of Shanghai, while still less than a hundred in number, obtained for their residence an area of one hundred and eighty acres, subsequently extended to 470, within the English Settlement, without taking the French and American settlements into account. Thrice that number of foreigners at Canton were restricted to an area of about twenty acres, of which in the end nearly 17 acres were covered by houses, and the only additional accommodation provided was by the erection of three new hongs, added to thirteen existing. This was no more happening; the Cantonese were determined that the foreigners should obtain no further visible privileges, and that they in turn should be contented with the trading facilities they had obtained.

The final words, which close the book, as well as the history of the Empire, which led to the taking of Peking by the Allies (1860), are moderate, and will be accepted by all students of the East to-day. "In the world, East and West, also recognised that the West had exercised great restraint and a wise moderation in respecting the fruits of victory, and that the restrictions imposed on Chinese sovereignty were only those rendered indispensable by the inefficiency and corruption of the mandarinate of the empire; but this was a lesson for future years; now, as the result of those wars, the Chinese learned, and they accepted, as their law, that whereas formerly it was China that dictated the conditions under which international relations were to be maintained, now it was the Western nations which imposed their will on China."
